Initial Data Evaluated

The data used to create the following charts is gathered from the New York Times election data website.

The time-series can be found here for California:

https://static01.nyt.com/elections-assets/2020/data/api/2020-11-03/race-page/california/president.json

It is freely available and is the data that was used by many TV stations and web pages to provide the real-time updates on the vote count.

Each time-stamp entry provides the following data:

{"vote_shares":{"bidenj":0.638,"trumpd":0.344},"votes":1412430,"eevp":9,"eevp_source":"edison","timestamp":"2020-11-04T04:18:49Z"},

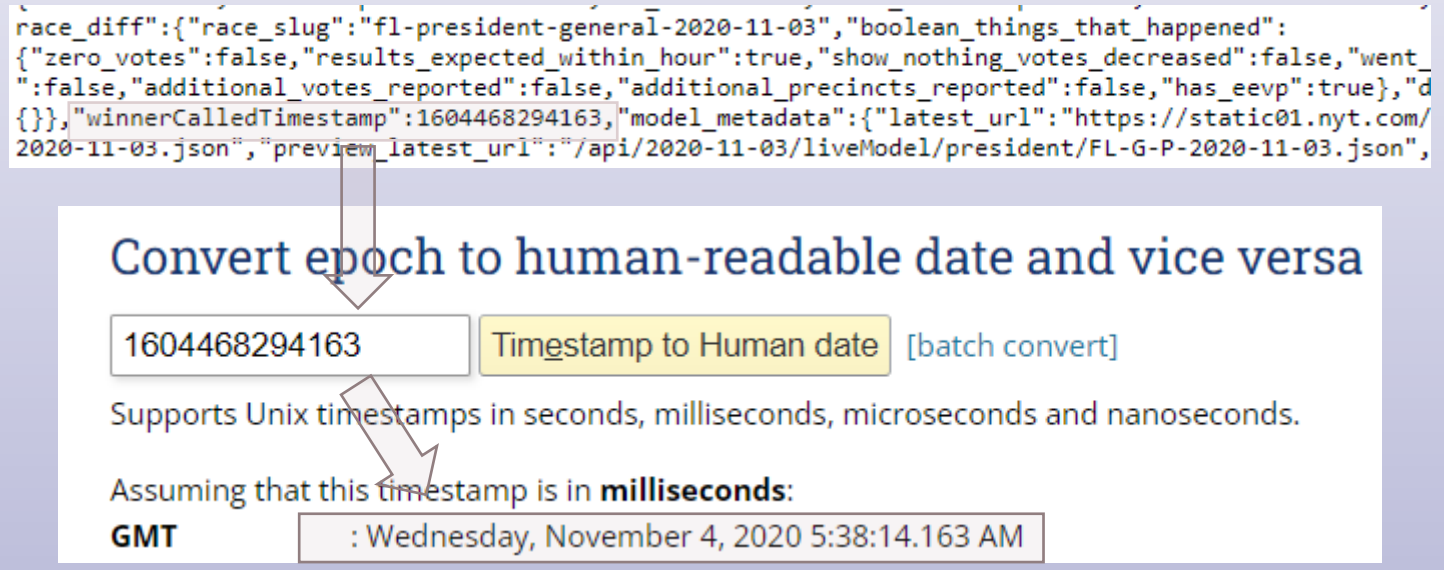
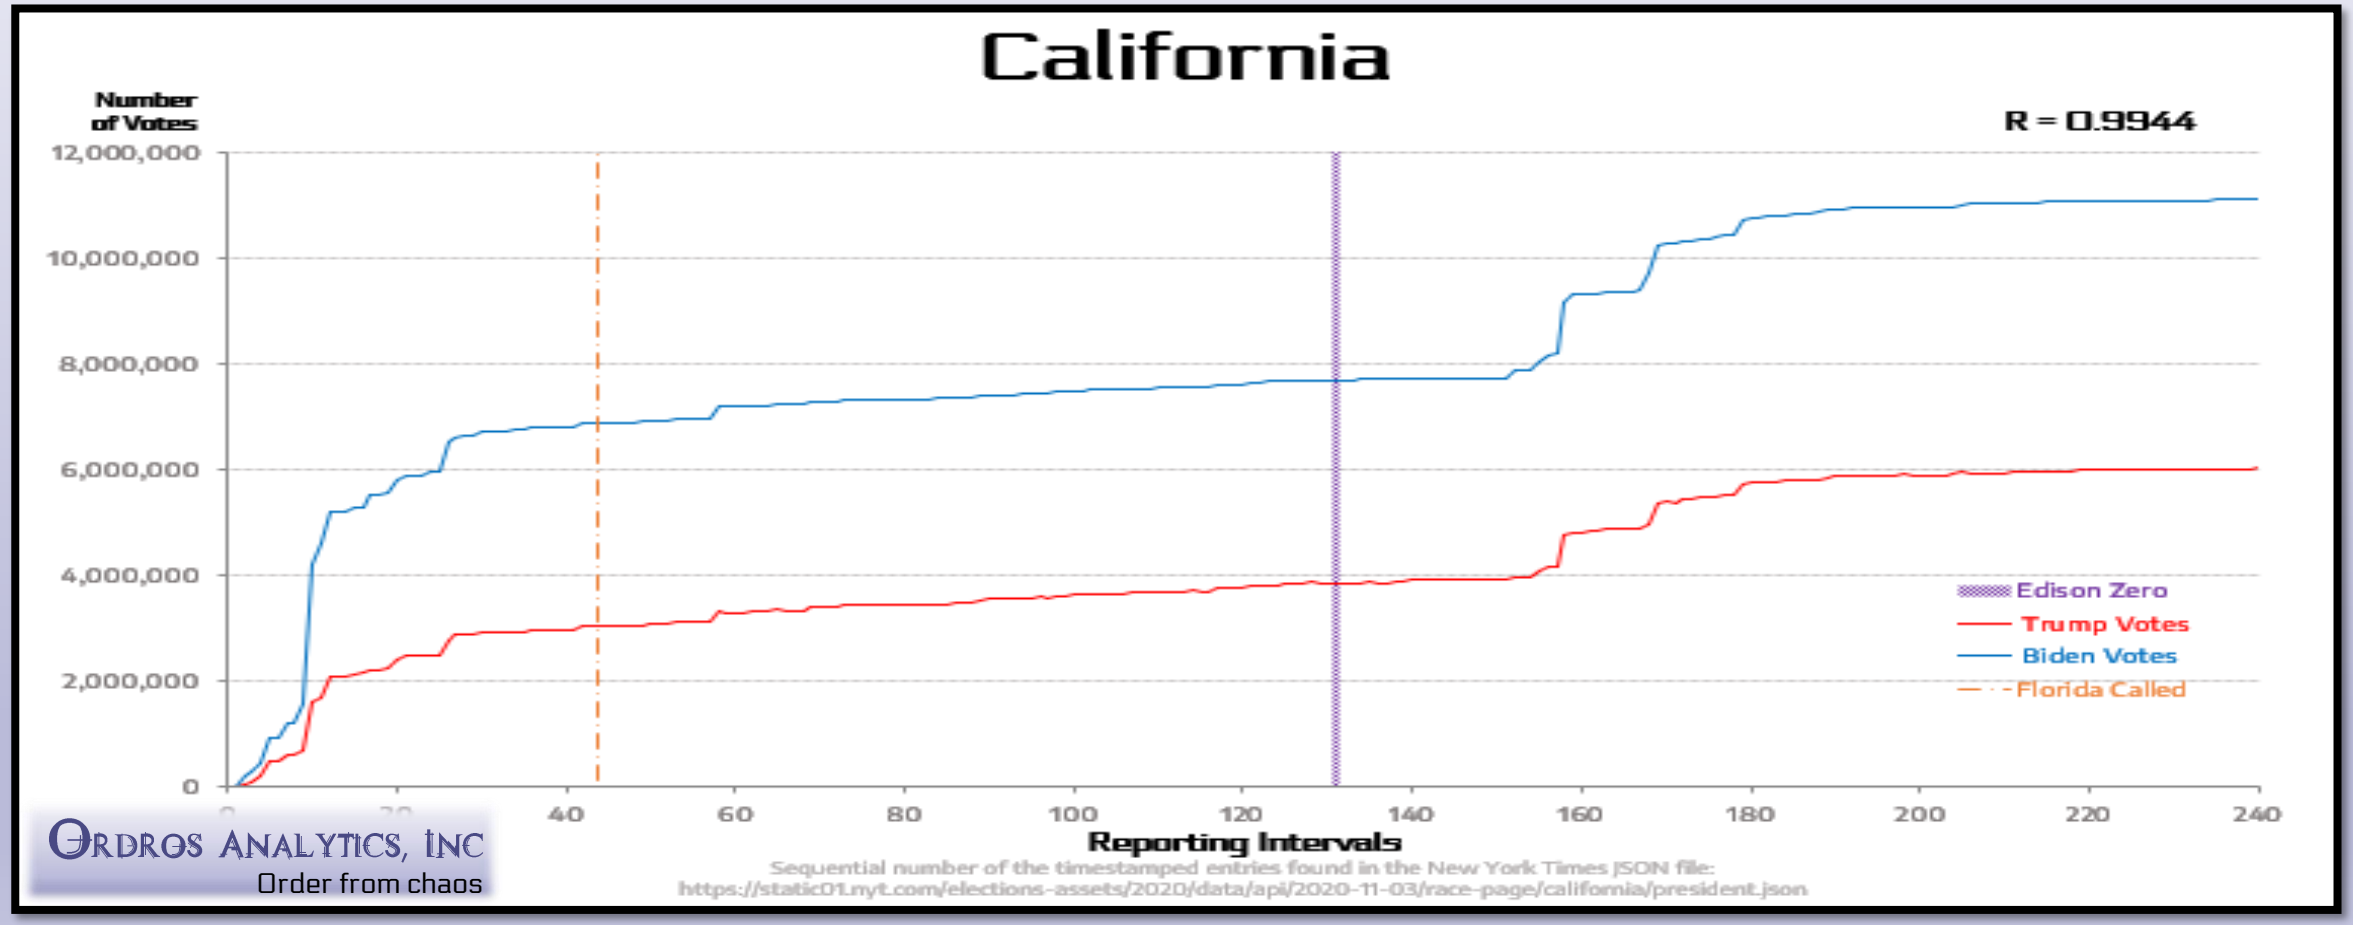
When was Florida Called?



https://static01.nyt.com/elections-assets/2020/data/api/2020-11-03/race-page/florida/president.json

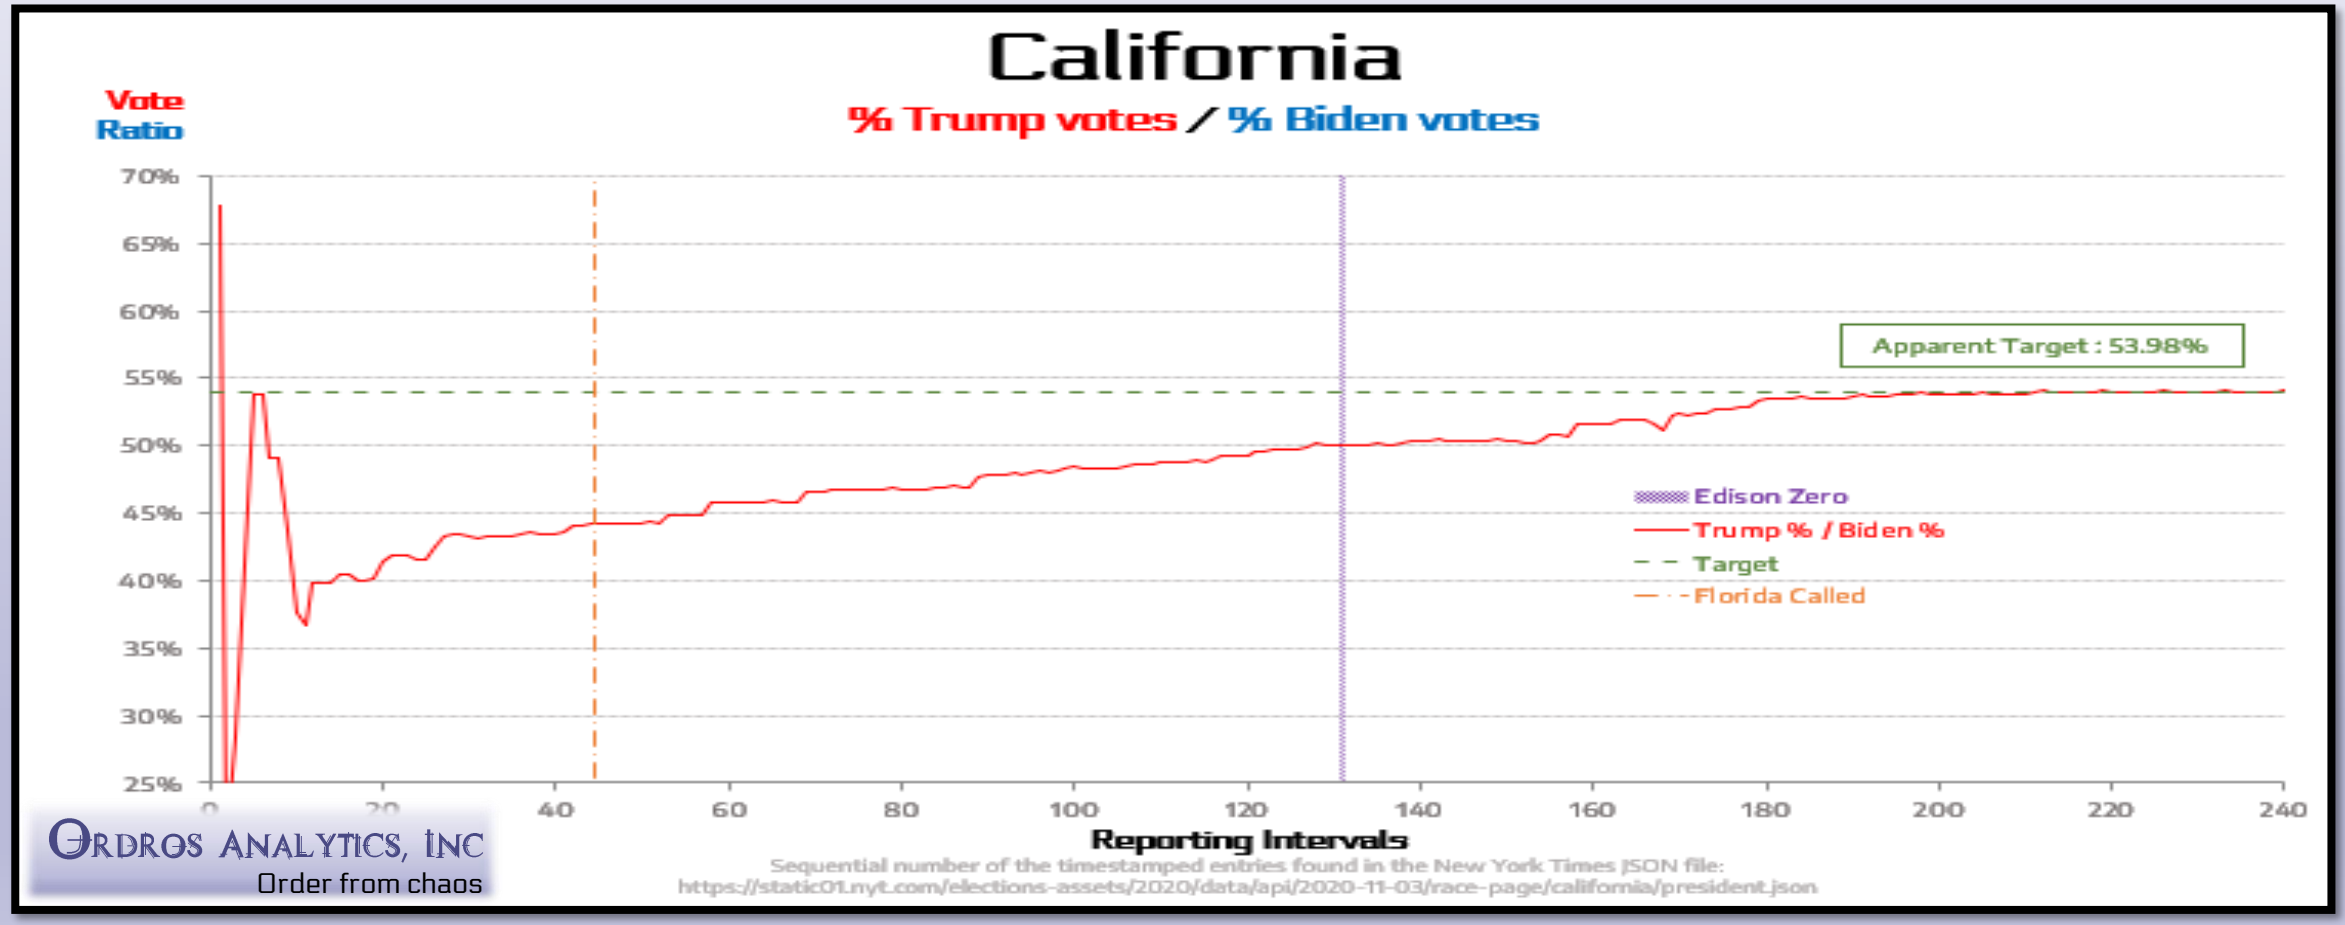
Presidential Total Votes

During the time between when Florida was called and the Edison zero, almost 100 reporting intervals worth of votes were added which had continually decreasing ratios of Trump to Biden votes with no large adjustments.

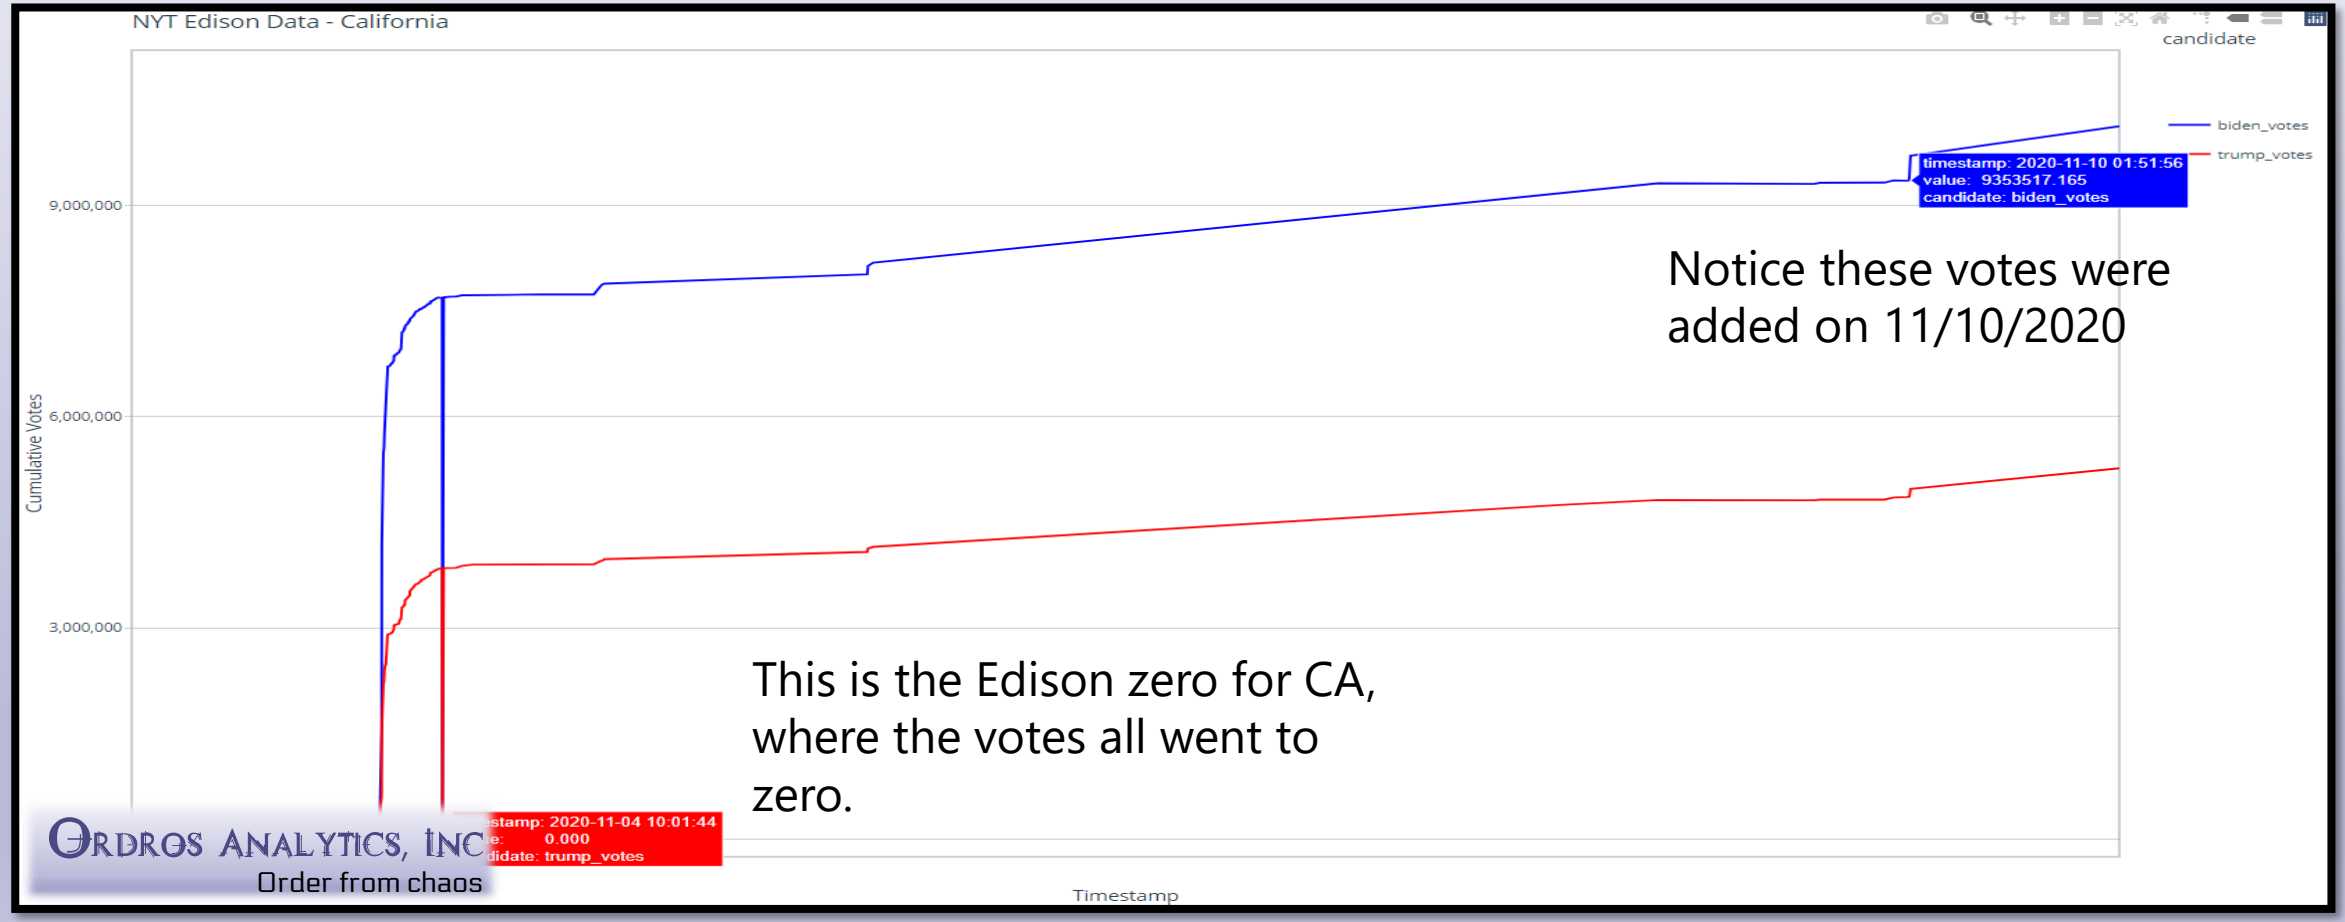


Presidential Vote Ratio Over Time

This almost linear approach to the apparent setpoint means that the votes were sorted to report over time by an increasing Trump/Biden ratio.



What is the Edison Zero?



Presidential Percent of Total Votes over Time

Biden received almost 50% of his total votes in the first 10 reporting intervals. This is something that should be evaluated for a state with so many mail-in votes

Placer County Yes, No and Total votes in CA Recall Election 2021

Notice the difference between the ratio of the mail-in and the in-person votes. This makes the reports of people going in to vote in person and finding that they had already returned mail-in votes even more concerning.
